SEEKING GOD DAILY

Have you ever found yourself at a place in life, or in some circumstance, and realized that you thought you were following God's will for your life only to realize you left God's will somewhere in the past?

People who work on river boats check in first thing every morning and receive their 'daily orders.' Those orders tell them what to do and where to go. Sometimes they contain the final destination but they can also change. Sometimes they make sense and sometimes they don't, but that's not their concern or problem. All they have to do is comply and on payday they receive their wages.

Can you imagine getting on an airplane, the pilot comes on the speaker and says "This is your captain speaking, in just a few minutes we'll be taking off but I don't know where we're going. We'll just fly around until we run out of fuel. Hopefully we'll be able to land safely."

Could it be that we sometimes live that way?

Let's look at some Scriptures that point us to seek God's direction daily.

Perhaps ask different people to look these up and then read them one right after the other.

- Psalm 5:3
- Psalm 143:8
- Mark 1:35
- Psalm 88:13
- Psalm 92:2

Talk about these Scriptures. Is there one attribute all of these Scriptures share?
(Answer: They all speak of seeking God in the morning).

So could we interpret these Scriptures to say we should seek God in the morning?
(Answer: Yes, that's reasonable).

Why, who benefits from seeking God first thing every day, God or you?

Read these Scriptures:

- Luke 9:23
- Psalm 55:17
- Psalm 119:62

Now wait a minute, we just established that we should seek God in the morning. What are these Scriptures telling us?
(Answer: Although it's good to start each day with God, praising Him and seeking His will, God desires that we come to Him throughout the day and night).

Ok, read these Scriptures:

- Hebrews 4:16
- James 4:8

Wrap it up as you see fit.
